

Who Will Be the Next President—and Yell King?

NO. 55. BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY, PROVO, UTAH, TUESDAY, APRIL 15, 1930. VOL. IX.

CENTENNIAL PAGEANT IS FURTHER BY MANY YOUNG U. GRADUATES

George Albert Smith is General Chairman of Nationally Acclaimed Aids. Eastmond and Robertson Aid in Pageant and Music

Outstanding in every respect is the gigantic pageant "The Message of the Ages" which is being given at the Salt Lake Tabernacle in celebration of the church's centennial of its founding.

The presentation was truly a B. Y. U. affair. The centennial celebration was under the general chairmanship of Elder George Albert Smith, 93. The famous pageant was written by Bertha, Eleanor of Mesa, Arizona. Professor Lester L. Johnson, 36, composed much of the music used in the presentation and Professor A. C. Lund, 91, directed the choral portion of the production. Professor W. L. Eastmond, 56, long famous for his pageant successes was largely responsible for the artistic success of the production.

Two popular readers who have made dramatic atmosphere to the affair were Grace Dixon Stewart, 23, now of the speech department of the University of Utah and Brigham Young High School, and Elder Stephen L. Richards, 75, now of the practicing station in Salt Lake City. James M. Eastmond, 34, and Charles A. Kirkham were on general committees. Other alumni whose names appeared on the program were: Professor "Message of the Ages" were: John C. Moore, 40, of the University of Utah; Alton Moore, 40, of the University of Utah; Leland C. Snow, 41, of the University of Utah; William L. Moore, 41, of the University of Utah; and Charles A. Kirkham, 34, of the University of Utah.

DIXON CONTEST SUBJECT WILL BE 'BOULDER DAM'

The Dixon Extracurricular Speech Contest will be held during the next six weeks. The general subject is the Boulder Dam project. The contest will be held in the form of a series of twenty-four hour sprints to the contest. One hour before the speaker takes the stand a particular subject will be given each contestant in which time he will make his final preparation.

The contestants must deliver their essays entirely without the aid of notes.

Rolon Dixon, an alumnus of the University of Utah, is the author of the Boulder Dam Project. It is one of the most important and significant of the United States of which he has written millions of books.

Textile Class Study Salt Lake Factories

Twelve girls and one fellow, consisting of the Textile class left the gates of the University this morning to visit the textile mills at several places. This morning to visit the Salt Lake City. The girls will be studying the Salt Lake knitting mill, and various large textile plants in the city. A first hand study will be made of the processes of textile manufacture, from the raw materials to the finished goods, carpets, drapes and ready-to-wear.

The University Annual for 1930 at the University of Missouri will be the first of the students about the first day of May.

Cougars Prepare For Track Meet At Logan With Aggies Saturday

Team To Leave Friday Noon; To Work Out at Brigham City

With two inter school track and field meets already held, Brigham Young University athletes are taking a final week's training in preparation for the initial collegiate meet of the year with the Utah Agricultural College at Logan, Saturday, April 19. About 100 athletes will make the trip to the northern city, leaving here Friday. They will stop over at Brigham City and take a workout on the Fowler high school field and then proceed that same day to Logan, Utah. The meet Saturday afternoon will return to Provo that evening.

Although the Aggies are hailed as the underdogs, they are taking a good deal of track and field competition, reports are likely to be disseminated, in an exceptionally close showing by the States will be in no way a surprise. Aggie's liberal use of an underdog strategy, which is the most carefully calculated plan of their preparation for the event, is the most recent outcome of that Farmer club, not that they are aware of it on track standing.

Possible New Stars
Miffed, then, is the possible insecurity of reports, the Cougar coach, Ott Romney, is working earnestly to the effect of putting in B. Y. U. team in the best all-round condition for the meet.

Coming to the track, the B. Y. U. will face the Aggies minus some of its most powerful point getters who have previously led the Cougars in point getting. Romney depends much on his own runners, who are not expected to be out of the race to the victors. Indicated by the fact that the Cougars' men in the recent class and social unit meets there is ground for belief that they may have ability and attitude to respond favorably.

Looking likely heavily when Owen K. R. Y. U. has stronger in the past, graduated last spring, two powerful point winners, who are expected to win high and lower, respectively. It is interesting to watch the new men who will strike their first respective college in these hurdle events. This is to the fact that they can predict the possible outcome.

Cougar Whelmen Are Stronger

In the sprints and middle distances the two competing colleges are nearly evenly matched, the distance races are slightly favored to the Cougars. The B. Y. U. boys are stronger in the weights, though Aggies have some who will strike their first college in the middle and long distances.

One of the Logan College, B. Y. U. has record of the year in the 100 yard sprint, but Utah State has the edge in the 200 yard dash.

J. T. Aydelotte Makes Fortune Off Invention; Is Young U. Alumnus

16 Graduate Revolutionaries Dyeing With Invention

John Thirl Aydelotte, 16, returned to the campus on Friday, after an absence of over fourteen years, during which time he has been carrying on his chosen work in chemical engineering.

After spending some time at the University of Utah and after being associated with the Canadian Pacific Company in Canada for some time in the chemical research, Mr. Aydelotte turned his interests to the application of chemistry and physics to commercial use.

He has been asked for something that has shown the latest development during the last twenty years, "quietly said Mr. Aydelotte, "and in the dyeing business I found that this."

Upon this basis he went forward with an invention, a dye pattern which has been completely revolutionized the dyeing business with a class of dye and has yielded the inventor a fortune. His efforts began in California districts, later extending to the sections of the United States. Three years ago the invention was patented and the patent rights are now in the hands of the American Laundry Machine Company, with exclusive territorial rights.

Mr. Aydelotte, now a resident of Long Beach, California, where he is engaged in carrying on his invention work and at the same time is working as a business engineer in connection with some of the larger concerns in southern California.

BRIMMALL ADDRESSES MONDAY DEVOTIONAL

The building from "Within" was the topic of Dr. Brimball's talk in Devotional Monday morning. He said that there was a story of an "Ishtar, and applied it to the question "Is there any other way to build the best character than from within?" In summing up his remarks, he paraphrased the old proverb: "Go to the temple, thou shalt succeed; Consider the ways and be strong, primary subjects."

Prayer was offered by Nettie Smith, the first girl to be asked to pray the Lord's Prayer. The prayer was "Lord God of Hosts."

Psychology club meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon (today) at the Church Office Building. Dr. Professor Poulson, head of the department, will speak on a subject of current psychological interest.

IDEAS WIN

Americans pay well for new ideas. This statement has long commonplace, but found new emphasis during the week in the return to the campus of a former student whose ideas have been sold for big money.

Thad Aydelotte loved physics and chemistry, and he loved to see them find application in the lives of individuals. Based on this urge, and lipped on the everywhere present need for improvement, he swung open the door of opportunity which bestowed on him a fortune. "I looked about for something that had shown the least development during the last sixty years," he found that thing, and put his ideas to work. Presto!—for these ideas he received a half million dollars.

Idea and work win!

INSIDE DOPE

One of the many suggestions that has been offered toward the Y NEWS program in devotional next Friday to have the Sports Editor dog-hand across the stage while the Tuesday staff sings the Volga Boat man back-stage.

Special request has been made for us to publish a series of questions taken from standard intelligence tests. The first question is in poetry scann- ing.

(1) Give the central idea of the following stanza:

There is a Goshen girl I know,
Whose as cute as she can be
And everywhere that I may go
You'll find that girl with me.

The second question is taken from genetics.

(2) What color hair would a male short-haired guinea-pig have if you fed it wrinkled green peas?

The last question is taken from a simple psychology experiment:

(3) Why does a black hen cross the road?

(Note) A number of these questions will be published from time to time for the benefit of those students who wish to check up on their mental age, but who do not wish to take a special examination.

The Hangeul Sketches of professors has met with no much favorable comment that special requests have been coming in for more of the same type. With special arrangements, copyright privileges have been extended through the courtesy of Page number 5 and the Associated Press.

He herewith give a brief resume of the following:

John Swenson—"J. C." A mixture of the blue blood of aristocracy and the red blood of democracy. This possibly accounts for the deep hate of his complexion. The dignity of his voice is to have come from a long lineage of Quaker ancestors. His characteristic serenity has evolved through a careful study of surprising social problems. It is rumored that he is a past master of Elmer Glyn.

A THOUGHT

Friend! Are you homesick?

Does everything seem replaced?

Do you feel that you're being replaced the thoughtless smile?

Have you done something wrong and you feel the hurt?

Does the sweet tender beauty of spring leave an exquisite pain in your breast?

If so then let your eyes in mate hungrily toward God's dear love, thy soul!

Following the games the participants indulged in dancing and an "aviation" lunch was served. Miss Virginia Burnham and Golden Taylor were the committee for this unique party. Fred Dixon acted as patron.
